Jobs are back! Are you ready to get hired?

THE RECESSION IS OVER, AND COMPANIES ARE HIRING AGAIN. WHAT CAN YOU DO TO GET AN EDGE OVER THE COMPETITION AND BE HIRED?

By Vinod Bhosale and Isha Tabassum

N ow that the grueling period of the recession is over, the threats of sudden layoffs, pay cuts, downsizing and job freezes are no more looming. The scars of a drastic economic downturn have been healing over and the job market is slowly beginning to show signs of recovery.

However, the competition for existing jobs has only intensified, as the jobless crowd is piling up and even small job openings may turn into no-man’s land.

In today’s market, the qualities that made you competitive yesterday might not work tomorrow. You might need to spruce up your resume and make sure your application letter stands out. So how do you plan to differentiate yourself from the crowd?

The real key is to be informed, prepared and confident about your skills. Your job search is not just about looking for the right job, it is also about giving the right impression.

So what’s the real benefit in signing up for an Executive Masters program? ITM Executive Education Center (CREC) has a simple answer to that. They offer a 16-month Masters program in Business Administration, which is both cost-effective and beneficial.

The program is designed for working professionals who want to advance their career. It is a flexible program that allows students to work part-time and complete the program within a year. The program includes a variety of courses such as marketing, finance, human resource management, and more.

The program is taught by experienced faculty members who have worked in the industry for many years. They bring real-world experience to the classroom and help students develop practical skills.

The program can be completed online or on-campus, depending on the student’s preference. The online option is ideal for students who cannot take time off from work.

The program is offered at a cost-effective price, making it accessible to a larger audience. The total cost of the program is $15,000, which is significantly lower than traditional MBA programs.

The program has a strong network of alumni, which can be beneficial for job search. The center has an active alumni network that can provide job opportunities and networking opportunities.

In conclusion, an Executive Masters program is a great option for working professionals who want to advance their career. It is a flexible program that can be completed online or on-campus, and it is cost-effective.

Contact the ITM Executive Education Center for more information. Tel.: 25388844. Prior registration is compulsory.

Website: www.geebeeworld.com
Fax: 91 - 22 - 22854453
Tel: 91 - 22 - 43222333, Andheri (25th February - 6.30 pm - Tel. No: 25388844).